✧ Chapter 1: From Word Doc to World Impact

So, you finally wrote your 40-page eBook. Congratulations—you are now officially part of the 1% club. No, not the rich 1% (yet ☹️)—but the 1% of people who said “I’m gonna write a book” and actually did it. Most folks quit on page 3, distracted by TikTok dances and Popeyes chicken sandwiches. But you? You finished.

Now here’s the thing—your book is not just a book. It’s a seed. And just like Jesus said in Matthew 13:23, when a seed falls on good soil, it produces a harvest—30, 60, even 100 times what was sown. Your book is the seed. The course is the harvest.

Why Stop at One Format?

Look at Beyoncé. She doesn’t just drop an album; she drops the album, the tour, the Netflix documentary, the Ivy Park fashion line, and probably a cologne that smells like “success and lemonade.” Why? Because she knows people consume content in different ways.

Your eBook might reach readers, but your course will reach watchers, listeners, doers—the folks who don’t read but will binge-watch 12 lessons back-to-back like it’s Netflix.

The Course Economy Is Booming

- Online courses are a $300+ billion dollar industry.
- People pay $27, $97, even $997 for info that might already be free on YouTube. Why? Because it’s packaged, structured, and guided.
- Your eBook is already structured—you just have to flip it into video, slides, and worksheets.

Humor Break

Your eBook is like the McDonald’s burger. Good by itself.

Your course? That’s the combo meal with fries, drink, AND apple pie. People always pay more for the combo.

Faith Foundation

📖 Proverbs 18:16 — “A man’s gift makes room for him and brings him before great men.”

Your eBook is your gift. Turning it into a course is how that gift makes room for you—in classrooms, communities, and even bank accounts.

⇒ Action Step: Write this affirmation on paper and tape it to your wall:

“My eBook is the seed. My course is the harvest.”

✧ Chapter 2: God-Given Blueprint (Purpose + Plan)

Before you go running into Canva and recording videos on your cracked iPhone 8, pause. Ask: “Why am I doing this?”

If your answer is “just for money,” you’ll burn out faster than gas in a Dodge Charger. The foundation of your course must be purpose.

Step 1: Identify the Problem You Solve

Every good course solves a problem. Your eBook probably already addresses one.

- Is it financial literacy?
- Self-confidence?
- Faith and purpose?
- Hustling legally without catching a case? (Come on now)

People don’t buy courses for “information.” They buy transformation.

Step 2: Flip Purpose Into Modules

Think of your book like a pizza. You don't hand someone a whole large pepperoni and say, "Here, figure it out." You slice it.

Each chapter of your book = one slice. Each slice = one lesson/module. That's your blueprint.

Step 3: Make It Relevant

Remember, if your audience is 18–25-year-olds who've seen it all—social media scams, student debt, broken families. Your course must be relatable.

Examples:

- Use viral names in lessons (Drake, Kim K, Giannis, Kevin Hart).
- Share your testimony of struggle → strength.
- Always tie back to faith: show how God pulled you through.

Humor Break

Building your course without a plan is like trying to cook Thanksgiving dinner with no recipes. You'll end up with burnt turkey, lumpy mashed potatoes, and your family talking about you in the group chat.

Faith Principle

 Habakkuk 2:2 — “Write the vision and make it plain, so that he may run who reads it.”

That's exactly what your course is: a plain, step-by-step vision. Write it down, break it up, and watch your students run with it.

⇒ Action Step: Take a piece of paper and write down:

- The main problem my book solves is: _____.
- The 3–5 main lessons/modules are: _____,
_____, _____.

This is the skeleton of your course.

✧ Chapter 3: Breaking Your Book Into Bite-Sized Lessons

Your eBook is 40 pages. That's dope. But if you try to record a 40-page video lesson? Bruh... your audience is gonna pass out halfway through like it's a 3-hour lecture on tax law.

The secret? Break it down. Your course should be bite-sized, binge-worthy, and easy to digest. Think Netflix series, not History Channel marathon.

Step 1: Match Chapters to Modules

Each chapter of your book can become a module or lesson. If your book has 12 chapters → boom, you now have 12 lessons.

- Book Chapter 1 → Course Lesson 1
- Book Chapter 2 → Course Lesson 2

Simple, right? That's your foundation.

Step 2: Short Lessons Win

Attention spans today? Shorter than a Lil Baby verse. Your lessons should be 10–15 minutes max.

Why?

- People binge-watch shorter content.
- Easier to edit.
- You can sell it as “12 powerful bite-sized lessons.”

Step 3: Add Layers

Each lesson should include:

1. A script/teaching (based on your book chapter).
2. A visual (slide, graphic, video).
3. A takeaway (scripture, reflection, or quick homework).

AI Hack

Don't stress about rewriting everything. Use AI:

- ChatGPT or Claude → paste your chapter → ask it to “summarize into 5 bullet teaching points.”
- Notion AI → auto-organize your book into sections.

- Otter.ai → record yourself talking, it transcribes, boom—lesson notes.

Humor Break

Your course lessons should be short and sweet. Not like that one church testimony where Sister Johnson went from “I just want to thank God...” to telling us her ENTIRE life story since 1973.

Faith Principle

📖 Ecclesiastes 12:10 — “The Teacher searched to find just the right words, and what he wrote was upright and true.”

Be intentional. Break it down. Make it upright and true.

⇒ Action Step: Grab your book, list out each chapter, and label them Lesson 1–12. You just outlined your course.

✧ Chapter 4: Writing Scripts Without Stress

Now you got your modules mapped. Next step: scripts. But don't panic—you don't need to sound like Morgan Freeman narrating a National Geographic special.

Your script is just a guide so you stay on track, sound confident, and deliver value without rambling.

Step 1: Flip Chapters Into Scripts

Take a paragraph from your book. Instead of reading it word-for-word (boring!), rewrite it conversationally.

Example:

- Book line: “Financial literacy is the foundation of wealth-building for young adults.”
- Script line: “Look, if you don't know how to handle money, it's like trying to play basketball with no hoop—you're just dribbling in circles.”

Step 2: Keep It Real

Your script should sound like you're talking to your homie at a cookout, not giving a college lecture. Add:

- Slang (as long as it's natural).
- Humor (memes, celebrity comparisons).
- Faith (scriptures, prayers, short testimonies).

Step 3: Use AI for Speed

- ChatGPT: "Turn this chapter into a 500-word teaching script with humor + Bible verses."
- Jasper AI: Great for rewriting in fun tones.
- Copy.ai: Free for brainstorming intros + hooks.

Step 4: Add Hooks

Start every script with a hook:

- Funny: "If you're broke right now, don't panic—so was half of Jesus' disciples."
- Relatable: "Ever felt like your paycheck disappears faster than Popeyes biscuits with no water?"
- Faith-filled: "God gave me this word for you today..."

Humor Break

Reading your book word-for-word in your course video? That's audiobook energy, not course energy. You want energy! Nobody's paying $97 to watch you read slides like a robot. 🤖

Faith Principle

📖 Colossians 4:6 — “Let your conversation be always full of grace, seasoned with salt, so that you may know how to answer everyone.”

Your scripts should be seasoned. Not bland. Add some salt (humor, personality, faith).

👉 Action Step: Pick one book chapter. Use AI to convert it into a script. Then practice teaching it out loud for 5 minutes.

✧ Chapter 5: Recording on a Broke Budget

Listen... you don't need a $3,000 camera, a Hollywood set, or Beyoncé's production team to record your course. Matter fact, some of the best-selling courses were recorded on iPhones in bedrooms.

If you're waiting for perfect equipment, you'll never start. God already gave you everything you need. Remember Moses? He thought he needed fancy tools too, but God was like, "What's that in your hand?" (Exodus 4:2). Translation: use what you got.

Step 1: The Gear You Already Own

- Phone camera (yes, your cracked iPhone 8 still works).
- Headphones with mic (AirPods, cheap wired ones, whatever).
- Quiet space (closet, car, or anywhere your little brother isn't screaming about Fortnite).

Step 2: Free Recording Tools

- Zoom (free plan works for recording yourself + slides).
- OBS Studio (free software for screen recording).
- Loom (free) for recording lessons with your face in the corner.

Step 3: Free/Low-Cost Editing Tools

- CapCut (free) – TikTokers use it; so can you.
- DaVinci Resolve (free) – professional-grade editing, no cost.
- Audacity (free) – clean up your audio.

Step 4: AI Help

- Descript → edit videos like a Word doc (removes filler words, umms).
- Wisecut → auto-edits, adds captions, even music.
- Opus Clip (free) → chops long videos into short clips for promo.

Humor Break

Don't let "broke" stop you. Some of y'all spent $500 on Jordans but won't spend $50 on a mic. Bruh... your Jordans ain't gonna teach nobody financial literacy.

Faith Principle

📖 Zechariah 4:10 — “Do not despise these small beginnings, for the Lord rejoices to see the work begin.”

God ain't asking for perfection—He's asking you to start.

➡ Action Step: Record a 2-minute test lesson on your phone. Watch it back. Don't cringe—thank God you started.

✧ Chapter 6: Slides That Slap (and Preach)

Now let's be real. Some of y'all can talk, but your audience still needs visuals. People learn better when they can see + hear. That's where slides come in.

But don't stress—you don't need to be Picasso. Just keep it clean, clear, and engaging.

Step 1: Free Slide Tools

- Canva (free) → tons of course templates.
- Google Slides (free) → simple + shareable.
- PowerPoint (if you already got it).

Step 2: AI Slide Builders

Lazy? Cool—AI got you.

- Gamma.app → paste your chapter → AI builds slides.
- Beautiful.ai → auto-styles your slides.
- Tome.app → storytelling slides with AI images.

Step 3: Slide Rules

- 1 Big Idea per slide.
- Use images, not essays. (Nobody wants to read paragraphs while you're talking).
- Add scriptures + affirmations at the end of each lesson.
- Keep colors consistent (pick 2 main ones).

Step 4: Make It Viral-Ready

- Add memes (nothing says “engaging” like a Will Smith slap meme next to your point about discipline).
- Keep text large (your grandma should be able to read it without glasses).
- Sprinkle faith + humor (example: “God said ‘Let there be light’ ... so don’t use dark yellow fonts nobody can read.”).

Humor Break

Slides without pictures? That’s a funeral program. Don’t bore your audience to death—bring life into your lessons.

Faith Principle

 Habakkuk 2:2 — “Write the vision and make it plain.”

Plain. Not complicated. Your slides should make your vision simple enough for anyone to run with it.

⇒ Action Step: Take your first chapter/module and make 3 slides:

1. Title & main point.
2. Key scripture or principle.

3. One funny meme or relatable visual.

That's your starter kit.

✧ Chapter 7: Add Your Flavor (Personality = Currency)

Look, anybody can read a script. But nobody can be you. And in this generation, personality = currency. People don't just buy your course because of the info—they buy because they vibe with you.

Step 1: Be Authentically You

- If you're funny, crack jokes.
- If you're deep, drop wisdom.
- If you're faith-filled, pray with your audience.

Don't try to sound like "Professor Smart Guy." Be the version of yourself that your homies would recognize.

Step 2: Use Viral Language

Make references to pop culture, viral trends, and celebrities your audience knows.

- Instead of saying “Stay disciplined,” say: “Stay consistent like LeBron in year 21.”
- Instead of “Avoid distractions,” say: “Ignore drama like Taylor Swift ignores Kanye.”

Step 3: Include Stories

Jesus didn’t preach without stories (parables). Why? Because stories stick.

Tell your:

- Failures (don’t be scared to admit struggle).
- Wins (show how God came through).
- Everyday moments (like the time your Wi-Fi cut off mid-Zoom, but you still pushed through).

Step 4: Sprinkle Faith

- Start with prayer.
- End with scripture.
- Show how biblical principles apply to real life (e.g., “Budgeting is stewardship. Remember Luke 16:10: Whoever is faithful with little will be faithful with much.”)

Humor Break

Your course without personality is like Chick-fil-A without sauce. Sure, it’s still good, but it’s not slapping the same.

Faith Principle

 Matthew 5:14 — “You are the light of the world. A city set on a hill cannot be hidden.”

Your unique light—your personality—is what makes your course shine.

⇒ Action Step: Write down 3 personal stories (funny, faith-filled, or failures) you can sprinkle into your lessons.

✧ Chapter 8: Editing Like a Netflix Producer

Okay, so you recorded your lessons. Great. But raw footage looks like that one uncle's Facebook Live—blurry, shaky, and too long. Editing is where your course gets polished.

Step 1: Keep It Simple

You don't need Hollywood effects. Your editing goals:

- Trim awkward pauses.
- Cut background noise.
- Add text, slides, or images when needed.

Step 2: Free/Low-Cost Editing Tools

- CapCut (free) → add captions, transitions, even music.
- DaVinci Resolve (free) → full pro editor.
- Descript ($12/mo) → edit video like text (delete “uhs” and “ums” in one click).

Step 3: Add Captions

Most people watch videos muted (scrolling on their phones).
Captions = must-have.

- CapCut auto-captions.
- Descript subtitles.
- Zubtitle (cheap).

Step 4: Add Music + Graphics

Light background music keeps things engaging (just don't drown out your voice).

- Free music → YouTube Audio Library.
- Free graphics → Canva animations, Pexels, Unsplash.

Step 5: Cut for TikTok/IG Reels

Each lesson you record = future promo clips. Editing for short form lets you market your course everywhere.

Humor Break

Editing is like cutting your own hair—you could do it yourself, but sometimes it's better to let the tools handle it so you don't come out looking crazy.

Faith Principle

 1 Corinthians 14:40 — “But everything should be done in a fitting and orderly way.”

Editing is about order. Clean up the chaos so your students can focus on the message.

👉 Action Step: Take your test video from Chapter 5, put it into CapCut or Descript, and practice trimming it down to 2 minutes with captions.

✧ Chapter 9: Hosting Your Course Online (No Tech Headaches)

So you got your recorded, edited lessons. Now comes the big question: “Where do I put this thing so people can actually watch it?”

Relax. You don’t need to be a Silicon Valley coder or Mark Zuckerberg’s cousin. Hosting your course is easier than setting up Netflix on your grandma’s TV.

Step 1: Free & Low-Cost Platforms

- Teachable (free plan) → lets you upload courses and sell.
- Thinkific (free plan) → up to 1 free course.
- Skool ($99/mo) → not free, but 🔥 for community + course combo.
- Google Drive + Private YouTube → literally free (but not the most professional).

Step 2: Easy Upload

All platforms work the same:

1. Create account.
2. Upload your lessons (video, slides, PDFs).
3. Add descriptions + titles.
4. Publish course.

That's it. You don't need NASA-level training.

Step 3: Community = Retention

Don't just upload a course—build a community. Why? Because people stick around when they feel part of something.

Options:

- Facebook Group (free).
- Discord (free).
- Skool (paid, but best for vibe + learning).

Step 4: Keep It Simple

Don't overthink. At first, all you need is:

- Home page: “Welcome + what you'll learn.”

- Modules page: Your lessons in order.
- Bonus page: Scriptures, resources, maybe a funny blooper reel.

Humor Break

Some of y'all stressing about platforms but still haven't uploaded your mixtape from 2017. Same energy—stop stalling.

Faith Principle

📖 Matthew 28:19 — “Go therefore and make disciples of all nations...”

Your course is your ministry. Hosting it online = reaching the nations.

⇒ Action Step: Sign up for Teachable or Thinkific free plan right now. Upload 1 test video. Boom—you're officially hosting a course.

10

✧ Chapter 10: Pricing & Monetization God's Way

Alright, let's talk money. Some of y'all love this part, some of y'all get awkward. But listen—it's biblical to profit from your work.

📖 1 Timothy 5:18 — "The worker deserves his wages."

Translation: Don't feel guilty for charging. You put in the time, the effort, and the prayer. Charge with confidence.

Step 1: Pick Your Pricing Model

- One-Time Payment: $47, $97, $197 (most common).
- Subscription: $10–$20/mo (great if you add content monthly).
- Hybrid: Pay once + upsell a community membership.

Step 2: Pricing for Beginners

If you're new, keep it affordable. Your audience (18–25, many at-risk) may not have big bank accounts. Start low, build trust, raise prices later.

Examples:

- Starter course: $47
- Full package: $97
- VIP coaching add-on: $197+

Step 3: Free to Paid Funnel

1. Give a freebie (like a mini-ebook, worksheet, or 5-minute video).
2. Build an email list.
3. Offer your paid course.

AI can help:

- MailerLite (free) → email marketing.
- ConvertKit (free plan).
- Beehiiv (free newsletter).

Step 4: Scholarships & Sliding Scale

Because you're teaching at-risk young adults, consider:

- Offering 5–10 free spots per launch.
- “Pay what you can” options.
- Group pricing for schools, churches, or nonprofits.

This keeps your heart aligned with mission while still making income.

Humor Break

Don't be that person charging $999 for a course recorded on a Nokia flip phone. Be real.

Faith Principle

 Proverbs 11:25 — “A generous person will prosper; whoever refreshes others will be refreshed.”

When you give generously (scholarships, discounts), God multiplies your harvest.

⇒ Action Step: Write down your starter price (ex: $47). Then plan a freebie (ex: “5-Minute Guide to Writing Your Ebook”) to attract students.

11

✧ Chapter 11: Marketing That Moves Mountains (and TikTok Timelines)

Okay, so your course is ready. But here's the truth: a course that nobody knows about is just a secret diary. You gotta market it. And not in a boring way—viral, entertaining, faith-filled.

Step 1: Social Media Is Your Pulpit

Use free platforms:

- TikTok → quick skits, tips, behind-the-scenes.
- Instagram Reels → repurpose your TikToks.
- YouTube Shorts → longer, but same clips.
- Facebook Groups → build trust with posts, lives, prayer, and memes.

💡 AI tools like Opus Clip can cut your course videos into 10 viral clips automatically.

Step 2: Story > Sales Pitch

Don't just yell "Buy my course." Instead:

- Tell your story (from struggle to teaching).
- Share a testimonial (from your first student, even if that student is your cousin).
- Drop value nuggets (free tips that make them want the full course).

Step 3: Partner With People

- Church youth groups → offer free lessons, then upsell full course.
- Local influencers → trade promo (they post, you give free access).
- Podcasts → guest spots sharing your story.

Step 4: Marketing That Actually Works

- Post daily (consistency beats perfection).
- Use humor (memes, trending audios).
- Include scripture + encouragement (keeps it kingdom).

Humor Break

Your marketing shouldn't sound like a used car salesman. Nobody's buying if your post starts: "Dear Sir/Madam, limited time only..." Bruh, relax. Talk like a human.

Faith Principle

📖 Matthew 5:16 — "Let your light shine before others, that they may see your good deeds and glorify your Father in heaven."

Your marketing = shining light. Make people feel hope when they see your content.

➡ Action Step: Record one 60-second TikTok today teaching a mini-lesson from your course. Post it. Don't overthink it.

12

✧ Chapter 12: From Course to Calling (Impact > Income)

Here's where it all comes full circle. Yes, you're building a course. Yes, you're making money. But at the end of the day, this is bigger than business.

Step 1: You're Building Generational Change

When you create a course, you're not just teaching skills—you're changing cycles. That young adult who learns to write an ebook? They might avoid the traps of the streets. They might become a leader in their family.

Step 2: Expand Beyond the Course

- Turn your course into a book (Amazon KDP).
- Turn it into an audiobook (AI narration).
- Turn it into a coaching program (group Zoom calls).

- Build a Skool community (students teaching students).

Your course is just the seed. God's vision is way bigger.

Step 3: Ministry Through Marketplace

Don't separate faith and business. They're one. Your course is ministry disguised as entrepreneurship. Every lesson you teach = planting seeds of hope and faith.

Humor Break

Imagine pulling up to heaven and God's like, "So, you watched 10,000 hours of Netflix but didn't finish the course I told you to make?" Don't be that guy.

Faith Principle

 Jeremiah 29:11 — "For I know the plans I have for you, declares the Lord, plans to prosper you and not to harm you, plans to give you hope and a future."

Your course is part of His plan. Prosperity + impact + hope.

Step 4: The Ripple Effect

When one young adult learns from you...

- They inspire their friends.
- Their family sees new possibilities.
- Their children grow up with a different mindset.

That's kingdom impact. That's legacy.

⇒ Action Step: Write down 1 sentence that defines the mission of your course. Example: "I teach disadvantaged youth how to build wealth through ebooks and faith." Post it somewhere visible.

Conclusion

You started with an ebook. Then turned it into audio. Then into a book. Then into a course. Now you're walking in your calling, teaching others to rise above struggle.

This isn't just about content. It's about kingdom building.

So go ahead—finish your course, launch it, market it, and most importantly, impact lives.

Because your voice matters. Your story matters. And your course could be the key that unlocks somebody's purpose.
